ADVANCE AUSTRALIA.

BLACK AND GLOSSY AS A RAVEN'S WING.

L. MORGAN AND CO., of No. 97, Pitt-street, Redfern, beg to announce that they have by a series of careful experiments succeeded in producing BLACKING of a description superior to any hitherto offered to the public, whether in the mother country or elsewhere.

L. M. and Co., anxious to be among the number of those who desire the independence of this their adopted country, by developing its resources and applying them so as to prevent remittances to Europe for articles of mere luxe, challenge a comparison between the deep jet and brilliant polish of their Blacking (liquid or paste) and any other now in use.

When the military pride of France was humbled under British prowess, among the Decratteurs of Paris, there was nothing more dinned in the ears than "Cirage Anglais," it is to be hoped that the beau monde of France will recollect that it received a polish from England, which yet remains undimmed. So let it be with Australia, which can now boast of Stultzs, Hobys, and other artistes of habiliments equal to those of Europe, and as dress is a passport in society, we trust it may be said of us that we have contributed our share of skill in making a "finished gentleman," and society in general will "tak a cup kindness yet" for us and others, who with "Auld lang syne," have advanced Australia. 5204

THE INCREASING DEMAND FOR

OWEN'S IMPROVED COOKING STOVE, and the satisfactory acknowledgements of those who have already been supplied, assure the manufacturers that their efforts to merit public patronage have succeeded even beyond their most sanguine expectations, and the preference given to their Stove for its capabilities, as well as for its moderate cost, fully establishes the fact that it will supersede anything of the kind ever yet brought before the Australian public.

The above stove has a hot-plate, a spacious oven uniformly heated, presents that cheering aspect an open fire, and burns any description of fuel,—one of which can be seen in operation by applying at the

Manufactory,
No. 581, George-street,
Opposite the Herald Office.

GOOD WHITE SHIRTS,

AT SMITH'S COLONIAL SHIRT MANUFACTORY,
37, PARK-STREET.

TO Gentlemen who prefer having their Shirts made to measure or order, J. T. Smith respectfully solicits them to give their directions during the winter months, as the influx of orders in the spring and summer renders it almost impossible to pay that strict and individual attention to the demands of all his numerous patrons that he really wishes to do; and from the comparatively few good shirt hands to be met with, great delay is often caused, which is unavoidable, for the two reasons assigned. J. T. S. suggests that his friends should now give their orders for what they are likely to require in the spring. A registry is kept of all measures and particulars; therefore, for those gentlemen who have been previously supplied at his manufactory and reside in the country, it will be only necessary to transmit their wishes through the post-office, and every possible care and attention shall be paid to them.

A large and varied stock always on hand, comprising—Plain and fancy shirts, with or without collars; extra large size ditto; yacht and regatta shirts, choice patterns; Scotch twill, &c. Boys' and youths' shirts of every description. Flannel shirts and drawers, cravats, braces, boot hose, &c.

The Bittern was purchased in Madras by Mr. Birrell, and loaded with cargo for Sydney direct, but having run short of water on her passage, was compelled to put into Swan River, after a tedious voyage of 84 days; after leaving Swan River she called at Adelaide, and remained there a few days. She sailed on the 9th instant from that port, and met with very bad weather the last four days. On the [illegible], off Cape Bridgewater, she spoke the Emily, from Adelaide bound to Port Phillip, with emigrants. The Phantom, hence, arrived at Adelaide on the 8th instant.

The Effort, from Wide Bay, brings 20,000 feet pine, 3 tons tallow, 7 hides, and 15 bundles sheepskins. She made the Heads last Sunday evening, but the southerly wind prevented her from coming in, and as the sea was increasing very high, Captain Thompson bore up for Broken Bay, where he lay with a number of small coasters, until yesterday morning. The Elizabeth Jane was the only vessel at Wide Bay when the Effort sailed.

The Deborah, from San Francisco, touched at Tahiti, and sailed from that port on the 16th August. The following vessels were lying at Papeite, on her leaving: French corvettes, Thisbe, 32 guns, and Bayonnaise, 32 guns, from China, and bound to France. The Durance, transport ship; the Cocyte, steamer; the Kamehameha, late the yacht of the King of the Sandwich Islands; and the Sultana, fitting out for Valparaiso. The whalers were—the Lalla Rookh (no crew), Corinthian, homeward bound, half full; Dryade, abandoned whaling, and bound for Peru, to seek cargo for California. The Pearl was loading with oil and shells for London. The Primus, ketch, sailed on the 13th August to the westward, and the Cheerful, schooner, bound for Raratonga.

The Moa spoke the brig Salacia, on Sunday last, forty miles south-west of Lord Howe's Island.

Looking at the main object to be secured by the establishment of steam communication—that of quick and regular postal communication between the colony and the mother country, and also with India and China—it is, we think, to be regretted that the whole of the recommendations of the committee were not confirmed by the Council. The refusal to contribute anything in aid of steam communication by way of Cape Leuwin will probably be taken hold of as a justification for further delay. As South Australia has refused to give anything towards the Torres Straits route, and this colony has now taken the same course in regard to the route by Cape Leuwin, the Home Government may say, and not unreasonably, that in the absence of the general and cordial co-operation of the colonies, they do not feel justified in putting the people at home to a considerable annual expense in laying on mail steamers to Australia. And so, by the time the obstacle interposed by the East India Company may be removed, another will have been created by the colonies themselves, which may lead to an indefinite postponement of the enterprise.—Maitland Mercury.

ANTI-CONVICT CONFEDERATION.

THE efforts of the colonists, at various periods during the last four years, to avert from their country the countless evils of direct transportation to its shores, more especially the efforts of the last few days, have been highly honourable to their patriotism, their morality, and their religion. Of the eventual success of those efforts, we cannot entertain a doubt. For even should a majority of the Legislative Council reject Mr. LAMB's motion, and declare themselves favourable to the resumption of transportation, the colonists have shown too much spirit to allow of its being supposed for a moment that they would quietly succumb to so iniquitous a decision. We spoke unguardedly the other day when we said that should such a decision take place, all would be lost. No doubt, if the people bowed to it, and quietly sat down in the helpless abandonment of despair, all would indeed be lost. The Minister would take the decision, if followed by a tacit acquiescence on the part of the constituences, as a fair and constitutional manifestation of the Public Will. But there will be no such acquiescence. If the Council so betray their trust, the people will know what to do, and will do it. We refer to no acts of violence—we mean to throw out no threats. The people will seek for justice; and they will seek for it in the right way, and in a way that will both deserve and command success.

But something more is required than the prevention of transportation direct. The argument of the pro-convict party is, that if we do not accept transportation direct, we shall have transportation indirect; the difference between the two being, that with the one we should receive certain compensatory equivalents, and with the other nothing but unmitigated evil. The argument is obviously fallacious, for if convict labour would be useful if sent from England direct, it certainly could not be useless from the mere circumstance of its being sent through the media of adjacent colonies. But the colonists should grapple with the argument on other and higher grounds. They should grapple with it by making a vigorous, united, and persevering effort to put down the whole system upon which it is based. They should say, "We will neither accept transportation direct, nor submit to it in any other form. So far as the United Provinces of Australia are concerned, we will put an end to it altogether."

But we are taunted with our impotency. We are told to remember Dame PARTINGTON's redoubtable combat with the billows of the Atlantic. And if there were any truth in the assumed parallel—if the sturdy Anglo-Saxons by whom Australia is colonised, and by whose enterprise her destiny is to be shaped, were indeed as powerless and infatuated as a doting old beldame—and if the British empire were indeed as cold, as furious, and as unreasoning as the surges of the storm-lashed deep—then, indeed, we grant, our resistance would be as ludicrous as it would be futile. But the colonists are not old women, nor do they fight with birch-brooms. Great Britain is not a foaming monster, who overwhelms with brute force all who oppose the dictates of her will. This point was admirably touched by one of the speakers in the Barrack-square. Having referred to the bloodless victory achieved by the people at the Cape of Good Hope, and by our neighbours at Port Phillip, "in this contest," said Mr. G. K. HOLDEN, "the question is one of moral, and not of physical force. This is the true distinction between our case and that of Dame PARTINGTON which has been held up for our warning. The Atlantic of British aggression will always recede if we wave it back, not with the broom of an old-wive's threats, but with the sword of reason and justice. In this contest, beyond all others, 'they are thrice armed who have their quarrel just.'"

All that is wanted in this moral contest with an enlightened, honourable, and magnanimous nation like that which we are proud to call our parent, is COMBINATION—combination on the part of all the colonies that are to be grouped together, under our new Constitution, as Confederate Australia. The object of this combination should be, to put an end to transportation wherever, within the Australian territories, it at present exists, and to prevent its introduction into any part of those territories which is now free from its withering curse. And this end should of course be sought by none but lawful and prudent means—by earnest, importunate, untiring appeals from the intellect, the heart, and the conscience of injured Australia, to the intellect, the heart, and the conscience of righteous England. To such appeals England could not turn a regardless ear. She would listen, reflect, and, in the end, YIELD.

Happily, a combination of the kind has been already commenced. And, strange to say, it has been commenced where the penal system is in its palmiest state—where the free inhabitants are in the actual possession of what are called the material benefits which the system brings in its train—where there is a large standing army of British troops, a well-filled military chest, and labour in teeming abundance. And yet, in spite of all these benefits, the free inhabitants look upon the system with loathing and abhorrence, and are banding together to effect its speedy and final overthrow. Taught by the bitter experience of half a century, the colonists of Van Diemen's Land proclaim to the whole civilized world the truth of which that experience has convinced them—that no material advantages can compensate the moral degradation and social miseries with which convictism is fraught.

And in proclaiming this dreadful truth, they appeal to the sympathies and co-operation of all their fellow-subjects within the wide regions of Australia. The circular which they have issued, and which we had the pleasure of laying before our readers yesterday, tells a powerful tale, and ought to ring a solemn warning in the ears of our Legislative Council. As the length of the document may have deterred some persons from reading it, we recommend to their grave consideration the following passages, addressed to all the colonies with which Van Diemen's Land is allied.

As a last resort we turn to our fellow-colonists, who, united with us by the strictest ties, are liable to the same wrongs; and who will not be indifferent spectators of sufferings which they may ultimately share.

If you look at the chart of Van Diemen's Land, you will perceive her geographical position establishes a relation to the adjacent colonies, which no laws can disown, and no time dissolve. A few hours convey vessels from our shores to the ports of Victoria, New South Wales, and South Australia; and a few days' sail to New Zealand, and thence to the islands that crowd the Pacific Ocean.

The Constitution lately proposed to the Parliament of Great Britain will tend to consolidate the Australasian colonies. Her Majesty's ministers have taught the communities established in this portion of the empire that their ultimate interests are one; that upon the public spirit, intelligence, and virtue of each, in no small measure depend the happiness and prosperity of all.

We remind you that in twenty years from the present moment, should transportation continue, and the annual number remain stationary, 70,000 or 80,000 convicted persons will have passed through Van Diemen's Land to the neighbouring colonies. They will consist of men not only originally depraved—all will have gone through the demoralising probation of public gangs: they will all have dwelt for several years in exclusively convict society, where every prevailing sympathy must be tainted with the habits of crime.

This island will not be a filter: but the accumulation of moral wretchedness will unavoidably contaminate every mind, and stamp on every character the impression of its peculiar constitution.

The sacrifice of this colony will not, therefore, exempt the neighbouring settlements from any portion of the mischief incident to direct transportation. They will receive the prisoners later in life, but deteriorated in character. Evil associations and evil men become worse and worse; such is the dictate of reason; and such is the solemn warning written in the oracles of God.

If, then, your colony had cause to protest against the infliction of this evil in a limited degree, how much stronger must be your opposition to a system which will bring into your streets, your houses, your hospitals and prisons, the crime, insanity, decrepitude, and pauperism, ever consequent on transportation, aggravated by transmission through a country in moral ruin!

Were we to appeal to a principle of selfishness in addressing our countrymen, we might remind you that the reputation of this entire hemisphere is compromised by the condition of Van Diemen's Land. The nice geographical distinctions which colonists may make are lost in the distance. As your vessels enter foreign ports, the line which divides your population from ours, fails to distinguish them. We have heard with regret, and not without humiliation, that the British name, every where respectable until now, has ceased to ensure to many who have never forfeited its sanction, the common confidence of foreign nations. That a petty state, but of yesterday, has initiated laws intended to stigmatise all the inhabitants of the southern world, and attributing to the whole the character of convictism.

In the mutation of human affairs, the arm of oppression which has smitten us with desolation may strike at your social well being. Communities allied by blood, language, and commerce, cannot long suffer alone.

We conjure you, therefore, by the unity of colonial interests—as well as by the obligations which bind all men,—to intercede with the strong and unjust, on behalf of the feeble and the oppressed: to exert your influence to the intent that transportation to Van Diemen's Land may for ever cease.

To this appeal the people of New South Wales have cordially responded, first by a resolution of sympathy and condolence, and, better still, by forming an Association for preventing the revival of transportation to their own shores. We should have been more pleased had the object been more comprehensive, taking in the discontinuance of transportation to the sister island, and the prevention of its introduction into any province within the Australian group. But it is a step in the right direction, and will, we trust, be followed up until it issue in the larger confederation which alone will be strong enough to stay the ragings of the convict plague.

THE ANTI-CONVICT PETITIONS OF 1846.—We have been reminded that these petitions, which the Legislative Council basely refused to print, were nevertheless transmitted to England in manuscript, and were eventually printed by order of Parliament. The Chairman of the Barrack-square Meeting was therefore right in qualifying his complaints by saying they were not sent home "officially."

THE case of Captain MORPHEW, of the Tippoo Saib, reported in the Herald of Thursday last, is a very sad one, showing how easily a man of high intelligence, and hitherto irreproachable character (for Captain M. has a first-class certificate from the Nautical Board), may by one act of vice and folly ruin his prospects for life. The Tippoo Saib brought out a large number of Irish orphan girls; the ship was in a satisfactory state, the officers got the usual gratuities for good conduct, and, on the representations of the Surgeon, the Captain obtained a special letter of commendation from the Immigration Agent. Whether any immoral conduct took place on board is not known; if it did, it was very carefully concealed. But soon after the girls were landed, the Captain seduced one of them from a respectable family where she had obtained a situation, and lived with her for a few weeks; and, as a matter of course, deserted her when his ship was ready for sea. For the offence of "harbouring" a servant who was under a written engagement, Captain MORPHEW was fined £20, but as he sailed after being served with a summons, and before the hearing of the case, he will probably never pay the fine. The consequences to him, however, will be much more serious than a mere pecuniary penalty. He will never be allowed to command a ship with emigrants on board again; and as the ship is adapted for that trade, and her owners are engaged in it, it is very possible he will be dismissed from his ship when he arrives in England, and have great difficulty in getting another, as the circumstances under which he is deprived of his command will be well known. Thus he will, by his indulgence in vice, have ruined the girl for whom we must suppose he had some affection, and have thrown himself out of respectable and lucrative employment. It is a case which to masters of emigrant ships conveys a serious warning.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

FRIDAY.

THE SPEAKER took the chair at twenty-five minutes past three.

LAW OF DOWER.

Mr. WENTWORTH moved, pursuant to notice, that the above Bill be read a second time. This measure, he said, had been referred during the last session to a Select Committee, and this Committee having been reappointed during the present session, had taken fresh evidence and prepared this Bill. It contained two clauses. The first clause would prevent wives, of whose existence the purchasers of land in this colony had no means of becoming aware, from claiming dower in the right of husbands for whom they had never before manifested any concern. The second clause was intended to carry out and render unquestionable a decision already pronounced in this colony, to the effect that wives should only be dowable to the extent of a third of the original value of the property, and not of the improvements made upon it by the purchaser.

Mr. NICHOLS seconded the motion.

The ATTORNEY-GENERAL objected to this measure as a direct interference with vested rights. The right of the wife to dower was as complete as the right of any hon. member to his freehold estate. In the English Dower Act this principle was admitted by the insertion of a clause preventing that measure from having an ex post facto operation. He should not object to this measure if the same steps were taken to prevent it from having a retrospective operation.

Mr. MARTIN believed that the Act would be valueless if it was deprived of the retrospective operation alluded to. The circumstances of this colony were so very different from those of England that the sound reasoning which would apply to the one country would be wholly inapplicable to the other. There were many instances of persons coming to the country in years gone by, and acquiring property, out of which their wives in England could claim dower, although these wives had never expected any such advantage, although they had deserted their husbands during the life time of the latter, and although there was no possibility of those persons who might have purchased property from the husband in the colony becoming aware that he had a wife in England.

Mr. ALLEN believed that some such measure as this was absolutely necessary for the prevention of injustice. Two or three years ago, a case occurred which proved that necessity. A person who came to this colony as a transported felon, and was supposed by every one to be a single man, was twice married. He left behind him a widow and a large family, who entered upon the possession of the property. Subsequently, however, a woman of whom no one had ever heard, came from England, and by swearing herself to be the wife of the man of whom she had taken no notice during his life, ousted from all their possessions the family he had left behind him in this colony.

Mr. NICHOLS also supported the Bill. Although the Supreme Court, at Sydney, had held that a widow could only claim dower upon the original value of the husband's property, there was a subsequent decision at home under which dower could be claimed upon the whole value of the improvements made by the after possessors of this property. It was most inequitable that a wife who had never claimed or followed her husband should after a lapse of years be allowed to claim, not only a third of his property, but a third of the property of other people who could never have been aware of her existence.

Mr. LAMB approved of the principle of this Bill, and should have been glad if the Committee had gone a little further in order to apply that principle to the case of men claiming under females who were supposed here to be spinsters. To show the necessity of such a change, he mentioned a case in which the grand-children of a woman in such a position had been deprived of their property, which was very large, by the claim of some butcher at Nottingham, who had wholly deserted this woman in the intermediate period.

Mr. WENTWORTH thought that where the wife by her own laches had failed to make her existence known to any person who might purchase property from her husband in this colony, she had no right to complain of being prevented from acquiring a subsequent benefit from this property. The position and circumstances of England were totally different. There could be no difficulty there in ascertaining whether a man had been married or not, but here it was impossible to do so. The expenses and the difficulties of conveyancing had therefore been multiplied to an enormous extent.

The Bill was then read a second time, and was ordered to be considered in Committee on Tuesday next.

SYDNEY UNIVERSITY BILL.

Mr. ALLEN moved the printing of the petitions presented by him on the 13th instant, against the above Bill. He should be content, he said, with the printing one petition, and with an abstract to show how many petitions of a similar nature had been presented. He proposed, therefore, that the petition which he had presented from upwards of two thousand inhabitants of Sydney should be thus printed, and that the statement he alluded to should be appended to it.

Mr. WENTWORTH opposed the printing of this petition, because, as it was, he contended, a mere copy of that from Archbishop Polding and his clergy, there could be no necessity for printing the same arguments a second time—and because he believed it to have been improperly got up. In proof of the latter assertion, he quoted from an anonymous letter which had been addressed to him, complaining that the Archbishop had not only exerted his whole influence to procure signatures to this petition, but had stationed persons at the church doors to obtain such signatures from the people as they passed out. The hon. member for Parramatta, he said, had also told him that the petitions from that town had been got up in a similar manner.

Mr. NICHOLS thought that, instead of printing any of these petitions, it would be better to make an abstract, showing the number of petitions, the places from whence they had come, and the number of persons who had signed them.

The ATTORNEY-GENERAL thought that all petitions ought to be printed, for, from the way in which they were at present brought under the notice of the House, few members could know to what they referred. He did not think it was proper or decorous to rely upon the statements of anonymous letters; but whether the statement of the latter referred to were true or not, was a matter of little moment, for clergymen were certainly entitled to instruct and advise their flocks upon a matter of such vital importance as that of education. It would be an insult to the body alluded to, which they by no means merited, if it could be supposed that there was any such want of independence and intelligence among them as would induce them to sign any petition in which they did not fully concur.

Mr. MARTIN contended that the particular influences which had been excited in the present case had, for centuries past, been found sufficient to gain support from a large mass of unthinking people upon points of which the latter could know nothing. The bulk of those who signed the petition were totally ignorant of what they were petitioning about. As an expression of opinion on the part of the Archbishop, these representations were deserving of much weight, but they derived no additional weight from the thousands of signatures obtained in the way already described. The hon. and learned Attorney-General must know that in Ireland the priesthood had caused great excitement by the practice of holding meetings, and addressing inflammatory speeches to the people of their congregation after divine service. He was sorry to find that there was a disposition here to adopt similar courses. Such practices, however, ought to be wholly discountenanced by this House.

Mr. ALLEN believed that the attack which had been made upon the Catholic clergy was an unfair one. They had undoubtedly a right to give advice to their congregations on a subject of this nature, and any one who would take the trouble to look at the petition alluded to, would see that it was signed by a number of persons of other religious denominations, over whom the Roman Catholic priesthood could not have been supposed to exercise any influence. He had no desire to have the same kind of petition printed over and over again, but merely to have a complete record, showing the extent to which this expression of popular opinion had been placed before them, with reference to this measure.

The COLONIAL SECRETARY suggested that it would be very desirable to adopt the practice of the House of Commons, where all petitions were submitted to the Standing Orders Committee, in order that an abstract might be made of them, which abstract was made a record of the House.

The motion was then put and passed.

NOTICES OF MOTION.

Mr. LAMB gave notice of his intention, on Tuesday next, to move that abstracts of all petitions presented, or which may be presented, on or before the 27th instant, for or against the resumption of transportation to this colony, be prepared by the Clerk of the Council. Such abstracts to contain the following particulars, viz.:—1. The persons from whom and the place from which the petition emanated. 2. The numbers of signatures affixed thereto. 3. The name of the member presenting the same; and, 4. The date of the presentation and reception of each petition.

Mr. NICHOLS gave notice of his intention, on Tuesday next, to move that an address be presented to his Excellency the Governor, requesting that his Excellency will be pleased to represent to Her Most Gracious Majesty the necessity for endowing the Corporation of the city of Sydney with certain Crown lands, known as Grose Farm, in the vicinity of the city of Sydney, and to urge upon her Majesty the expediency of authorising such endowment with the least possible delay.

MR. SINGLETON ROCHFORT.

Mr. NICHOLS moved that the petition of Mr. Singleton Rochfort, in reference to certain proceedings of the Board "for the approval of properly qualified persons to be Barristers of the Supreme Court of New South Wales," presented by him on the 6th instant, be printed. His object in moving this was, that the petition might form one of the documents of which many had accumulated, to which the House might refer, when the question of the division of the legal profession should arise. He was sure that that question must shortly arise, and that the spirit of the people was in favour of doing away with such division. (The honorable member also complained of a second fee having been demanded by the Board for the examination of Mr. Rochfort, as a practice altogether unwarranted by any precedent in similar institutions.)

The ATTORNEY-GENERAL explained that the Board consisted of three Judges, "ex officio," and the Attorney-General for the time being, and two other barristers; and this Board appointed two examiners in classics and mathematics, and the fee given to these examiners was fixed at ten guineas each, and the candidates were bound to give these fees for each examination.

After some desultory conversation relative to the division of the profession, the petition was ordered to be printed.

PUBLICANS' BILL.

Mr. NICHOLS moved for leave to introduce a Bill to amend in some respects an Act intituled "An Act to regulate the sale of fermented and spirituous liquors, and to consolidate the law for licensing public-houses." The object of the Bill was to make some alterations in the law relative to the notices for the transfer of licenses, and to impose a duty on wholesale spirit dealers; and to restrict the sale by them of less quantities of certain spirits than four gallons. It had also some clauses relative to billiard licenses, the lighting of publican's lamps, with some other minor modifications of the existing Act. If he obtained leave to bring in this Bill, he intended to move that it should be printed for the consideration of members, but not to proceed with it any farther during the present session.

Dr. DICKSON seconded the motion.

The COLONIAL SECRETARY would not oppose the motion, but guarded himself from the supposition that he was pledged to support it whenever the measure was brought up.—Leave was granted to bring in the Bill.

HYDE PARK BILL.

Mr. WENTWORTH moved, that this Council having considered the report of the Select Committee to whom the Hyde Park Bill was referred, to now adopt the same. He did not feel it necessary to make any observations on the report further than to remark that it disapproved of the proposed Bill, and he must caution the Colonial Secretary that should he pass his measure through the House, he must expect very heavy claims for compensation to be forced upon the Government.

The COLONIAL SECRETARY did not intend to oppose the motion for the adoption of the report, as he felt bound to bow in submission to the opinion of the Committee, but he could not agree with that Committee that any claims for compensation could be substantiated. Nor did he think the evidence of the two witnesses examined before the Committee went to show that any such claim would be just, and he must say if the arguments against this Bill were to be held as valid, the same arguments might be used as an obstruction against all public improvements. It was urged that Macquarie-street was to form a street of great traffic between the proposed railway terminus and the Circular Quay, and a scheme was also alluded to for extending Macquarie-street South, but both these schemes were at present in embryo, and it was doubtful whether they would ever be carried out. With regard to the proprietors and residents in the northern portion of Macquarie-street, he must say that he thought the proposed improvement in Hyde Park would be a benefit. The greatest nuisance which prevailed in this portion of the street arose from the clouds of dust blown from the southward—which would be averted if the street was enclosed at Hyde Park. The communication to the south was at present by a tedious and insignificant lane leading to the Haymarket. He thought that parties coming into the city from that direction could take Elizabeth-street, while parties coming from the Surry Hills down the South Head Road could turn along College street, and so avoid any circuitous detour whatever. He regretted the opposition to this Bill, but as he before said he should not oppose the adoption of the report.

The report was then adopted.

PUBLIC ENTERTAINMENTS BILL.

The Public Entertainments Bill was read a third time and passed.

MITCHELL'S TRAMWAY BILL.

Mitchell's Tramway Bill was read a third time and passed.

UNIVERSITY BILL.

The Report of the Committee of the whole House on the University Bill was adopted, and the Bill ordered to be read a third time on Tuesday next.

STEAM NAVIGATION BILL.

On the motion of Mr. NICHOLS the House went into Committee on the Steam Navigation Bill.

The 2nd clause, empowering the Governor to appoint not more than five persons to carry into effect the provisions of the Act "for the regulation of steam navigation, and for requiring sea-going vessels to carry boats," was passed.

The 3rd clause, empowering the Governor to extend the provisions of the Act to other places by proclamation, was passed.

The 4th clause, enacting that all steamers plying on inland waters shall be licensed by the Board, was passed.

The 5th clause, enacting that before such licenses shall be granted, all steamers shall be certified as being in safe and good working condition, was passed.

The 6th clause, enacting that the proof of the condition of the vessel should lie with the master or owner, was passed.

The 7th clause, enacting that persons wilfully making false certificates for the purpose of obtaining licenses, shall be punishable by fine and imprisonment, was passed.

The 8th clause, enacting that all provisions of the Act 11 Victoria, No. 3, and which have not otherwise been specially provided for, shall be applicable to all vessels plying within the colony, was passed.

The Schedules to the Act having been agreed to, the Chairman left the chair, and reported the Bill, and the adoption of the report was ordered to stand an order of the day for Tuesday next.

MASTERS AND SERVANTS ACT CONTINUATION BILL.

On the motion of Mr. NICHOLS the House went into Committee on the Masters and Servants Act Continuation Bill.

The Bill, which was merely to continue in force the present Acts, was passed through Committee, and having been reported by the Chairman to the House, the Bill was ordered to be read a third time on Tuesday next.

RUSSELL'S NEPEAN BRIDGE BILL.

The House went into Committee on Russell's Nepean Bridge Bill.

The 1st clause gave William Russell, Esq., liberty to erect a bridge over the Nepean River. Clause 2—Power to make roads and approaches to such bridge. Clause 3—Tolls to be the property of William Russell, Esq., and his executors, &c. Clause 4—Certain tolls to be charged. Clause 5—Exemption of Governor, &c., from tolls. Clause 6—Giving liberty to erect toll-bars, and appoint collectors. Clause 7—Bridge to be a public Bridge at the end of 30 years. Clause 8—If bridge not completed in three years powers of the Bill to cease and determine. Clause 9—Road made to be dedicated to the public. Clause 10—Giving liberty to borrow money on mortgage of tolls. Clause 11—Tolls may be let. Clause 12—Lessor of tolls may appoint collectors. Clause 13—In case of non-payment of rent or avoidance of lease, lessees and occupiers removable by order of a Justice of the Peace. Clause 19—Collector may seize and destrain for non-payment of tolls. Clause 20—Persons injuring or destroying toll-gate, subject to a penalty not exceeding £10. Clause 21—All cattle, horses, &c., to be counted by lessee, collector, or keeper, before passing the bridge. Clause 22—Justice of the Peace to hear and determine offences. Clauses 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, were all the ordinary technical clauses. Schedule of tolls: Foot passenger, 2d.; horse and man, mule, &c., drawing or not drawing, 6d; gig, dray, or cart, with two wheels only, 1s.; vehicle, with four wheels, 1s. 6d.; oxen, more than ten in number, 3d. each, not more than ten, 4d. each; sheep, lamb, pig, or goat, ½d. No double toll on Sunday, and tolls payable only once in a day.

The whole of the clauses were passed, and the Bill reported, and ordered to be read a third time on Wednesday next.

MARRIAGE CONFIRMATION BILL.

The report of the Committee of the whole House on the Marriage Confirmation Bill was adopted, and the Bill ordered to be read a third time on Wednesday next.

METROPOLITAN PAVING BILL.

Mr. MARTIN in moving the consideration in Committee of the above bill contended that the House had already assented to the principle involved in this measure. There was such an assent in the Corporation Acts of Sydney, Melbourne, and Geelong. To each of these Civic Councils an express power had been given to make by-laws for this purpose; and besides these cases there had been a bill passed during the present session, at the instance of the Government, for regulating the streets, courts, and alleys, of Melbourne. The only question which remained was, whether that House should take this necessary work into its own hands, or should cast the duty upon the City Council. If, however, he should find any feeling on the part of the House against going on with the measure at that late period of the session he should have no objection to withdraw it.

Mr. DONALDSON remarked that, if he had been in the House at the time leave was given for the introduction of this bill he should have opposed that leave.

The Bill was then withdrawn from the paper.

AUCTION DUTIES ABOLITION BILL.

The report of the Committee of the whole House upon the above bill was confirmed, and it was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time on Wednesday next.

Council adjourned at ten minutes to seven, P.M., until three o'clock on Tuesday.

ABSTRACT OF SALES BY AUCTION THIS DAY.

MR. H. A. GRAVES.—At Mr. Daly's, Golden Fleece, Brickfield Hill, at 11 o'clock, Bullock Dray, eight Bullocks, Tackling, and Tarpauling.

MR. STEWART.—At the Horse Bazaar, Pitt-street, at 11 o'clock, Horses, Carts, Gigs, Phaeton, Harness, Milch Cows, &c.

PICKERING AND LUCAS.—At their Mart, at 11 o'clock, Household Furniture and General Merchandise.

Several articles, including yesterday's law report, country news, and correspondence, besides sundry advertisements, are unavoidably omitted for want of space.

ERRATA.—In the Judgment of the Judges, in the Insurance Case, reported in our yesterday's issue—For "why he should have them" read "why he should "lose" them.—For "with any stated exceptions" read "without any stated exception." For "properly chargeable, considering the nature of the case against the Plaintiff"—read "properly chargeable (considering the nature of the case,) against the Plaintiff."—For "had the Defendants not pleaded" read "had the Defendants not pleased."

THE CORPORATION ADDRESS.—We regret that in inserting the address of the Sydney Corporation to his Excellency the Governor, expressive of their repudiation of the language used at the late Circular Quay public meeting, and their confidence in the administration of the affairs of the colony under Sir Charles Fitz Roy, that by an inadvertence the article should have been headed "the Corporation Transportation Address." The address did not advert to the subject of Transportation at all, and we are happy to be able to state that the whole of the members of the deputation who presented the address, from the Mayor of the City downwards, are opposed to the renewal of transportation to this colony. Regretting our mistake most sincerely, we are almost consoled for its omission by the fact of its enabling us to make this announcement.

SYNOD OF BISHOPS.—The whole of the Bishops of the Church of England, in the province of Australasia, will meet in Sydney, for the purpose of holding a Synod, in the month of October. The Bishop of Adelaide was expected at Melbourne on the 18th instant, and with the Bishops of Tasmania and Melbourne will arrive by the Shamrock about Friday next. The Bishop of New Zealand arrived yesterday. The Bishop of Newcastle will come up from the Hunter, and these, with the Metropolitan Bishop of Sydney, will form the Synod. We believe this is the first meeting of the kind held by the colonial bishops, and great interest respecting it is manifested by the members of the Church.

DR. LANG FOR MAYOR.—It will be seen by our advertising columns that some of Dr. Lang's friends intend to put him in nomination for the Mayoralty in November next. There is a clause in the new bill that no clerk in holy orders or regular minister shall hold the office, but that will not exclude the Doctor—nobody can call him a regular minister.

FINE ARTS.—We noticed at some length a few months since an oil painting—"Ebengowan Castle"—which had been received by Mr. Saunders, of Maitland, as a prize from the Scottish Art Union. It is now to be seen at Grocott's, and is well worth the inspection of lovers of the fine arts.

A MAP OF SYDNEY.—Among our wants is a good map of Sydney. It is seven or eight years since one was published, and in that interval the Riley Estate, Paddington, the Surry Hills, and Chippendale, have been covered with houses, and are now densely populated, so that at least one-half the streets are not mapped at all. If the Corporation were to publish a map we have no doubt the expense would be fully repaid by the sale of copies at a moderate price. We say the Corporation, because we do not see how private persons are to obtain the necessary information.

POLICE OFFICE.—The sitting magistrates in this Court yesterday were the Mayor, Alderman Egan, and Captain Moriarty. Mr. Holden, Councillor Josephson, and Mr. Lenach, are on the roster for bench duty to-day.

COMMITTAL.—James M'Gee, lately a cook in the service of Mr. Little, of Pitt-street, draper, and who was a few evenings since given into custody on suspicion of having stolen from his master's premises a watch and a suit of clothes, was yesterday brought up for further examintion. Mr. James Callaghan, an assistant in the establishment, deposed that a pair of boots (produced in Court, and which had been taken off the prisoner's feet) were his property, and had been stolen from his room. On this charge the prisoner was committed to take his trial. Respecting the clothes and the watch nothing further has yet been ascertained.

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

TRADE is at present in as prosperous a state as could be expected or desired, so far as the retailers are concerned. Their stocks are limited, their purchases are made with judgment and in moderation, and on their part there is no appearance of a desire for speculation—their profits are regular, and though remunerative, are not excessive in any instance, and export orders are now being executed by them at as low a rate as they have ever been taken at: One or two articles, as Coffee and Tobacco, are, it is true, still quoted at extreme rates. The merchants have profited but little by their importations, coming in contact, as they have, in their operations with the retailers, who have indented their goods, and the jealousy existing between many of our principal importing houses materially affects the interests of all.

Ale and Porter, in wood and bottle, are dull of sale.
Apples—dried—None in the market.
Arrowroot—fine island—Enquired for.
Brandy—Quotations 5s. 6d.: no sales.
Cement—Very dull.
Cheese—English—Dull.
Cigars—Stocks light, and in the hands of the trade.
Cloves—A limited supply.
Coffee—A large parcel, ex Albion, is being offered at 9d. The importers are exceedingly firm, in consequence of the scanty supply known to be held in this as well as the neighbouring ports.
Copper—is in fewer hands, but is still quoted low.
Cordage—English, Manila, and Coir, are each held in limited quantities by the trade at an extreme figure.
Currants—Are quoted at 4d. to 4½d.; induced by low rates the consumption is considerably in excess of an average.
Fruits—bottled—are offered at low rates.
Geneva—Quotations 11s. 6d. to 12s.
Ginger—bleached—Light stocks.
Gunpowder—Market supplied.
Hops—A limited supply.
Iron—Market supplied.
Lead—Holders look for high rates.
Molasses—Enquiries, market bare.
Mustard—lbs., dull; ¼lbs. saleable.
Nails—Much enquired for, market bare.
Nutmegs—Market bare, quotations 3s. 6d.
Nuts—Plentiful, quotations 6d.
Oil—Linseed—boiled and raw, are quoted by the only holders at 6s.
Peas—Split—Enquiries: quotations 9s. 3d. to 9s. 6d.
Pepper—Enquiries for export.
Pickles—Pints are scarce, large quantities having been taken for shipment.
Raisins—Some parcels have changed hands at 3½d. per lb.
Rum—This market looks more firm daily; fine samples are in few hands.
Soda Ash—Heavy stocks.
Soda—Crystals—Only in the hands of the trade.
Starch—Stocks—The increased manufacture of the colonial article checks the sale of imported.
Sugar—Sales have again been heavy this week, and at rather improved rates.
Tea—has gone off in quantity, no alteration in rates.
Tobacco—Sales have been heavy, stocks are in the hands of the trade, and being fast reduced.
Turpentine—Market supplied, quotations 5s.

COLONISTS ATTEND! ATTEND!

A GRAND PUBLIC MEETING was held on Monday in the Barrack-square. Such a demonstration of public feeling and unanimity in adopting the proposed resolutions cannot fail to settle the question at issue to the entire satisfaction of the citizens of Sydney. FELLOW COLONISTS!! Now that the consequent excitement of such an immense meeting is a little subsided, and the minds of the inhabitants more composed upon this momentous public question, your attention is called to a point of no less importance, though it may not be deemed necessary to convene ANOTHER GRAND MEETING. The subject now at issue being of individual moment. It is this! Whether the Cargo of Sugar now on sale at 2d. per lb., at No. 1, Sydney, is not the best ever offered for public sale. The consequent demand has been so great as to cause the sale of the whole of it in half the time we could possibly anticipate. But REMEMBER WHAT FOLLOWS. On FRIDAY and SATURDAY will be exposed for sale portion of another cargo, infinitely superior to the last, at the same price—Two Pence per Pound—weighed in lots from One to Twelve Pounds to suit purchasers. The window will be filled with a sample, that the 60,000 INHABITANTS may judge for themselves. In consequence of the immense number of customers last Saturday, to whom in spite of the utmost exertions of myself and assistants we could not properly attend, all who conveniently can, are requested to come or send for their groceries in the morning of the days mentioned—Friday and Saturday next. Edwin Campbell, 487, George-street, opposite the Barrack Gate, Number One, Sydney. The revolving golden canister and immense sample of the beautiful Sugar will prevent mistake.

COLONISTS!! SUPPORT, SUPPORT, THE ENTERPRISING MAN OF BUSINESS. 3130

BALMAIN.
BUILDING ALLOTMENTS,
IMMEDIATELY OPPOSITE ESSWORTH'S WHARF. MILLER'S POINT,
BEING THE WELL KNOWN VALUABLE ESTATE RECENTLY THE PROPERTY OF CAPTAIN ADAMS.

MORT AND BROWN
Have received instructions to sell by public auction, at their Rooms,
ON TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 24,
At half-past 11 o'clock,

THE MOST VALUABLE BLOCK OF LAND IN BALMAIN,
IN ALLOTMENTS,
according to plans prepared by an able Surveyor.
THIS ESTATE has a frontage to the waters of Darling Harbour of about 196 feet, and to the main road of Balmain (Darling-street) of about 607 feet.
THE ALLOTMENTS
Into which it has been subdivided are as follows:—
LOT 1, 57 feet to Darling-street by 21 feet 3 inches to Nicholson-street
LOT 2, 70 feet to James-street by 21 feet 5 inches to Nicholson-street
LOTS 3 to 12, 20 feet to Darling-street and to James-street, the depths varying from 48 to 64 feet
LOT 13, Corner Allotment, having a frontage of 40 feet to Darling-street, and 35 feet to Looke-street
LOT 14, Corner Allotment, having 35 feet to Looke-street, and 40 feet to James-street.
LOTS 15 and 16, Corner Allotments, of about same dimensions as 13 to 14.
LOTS 17 to 19 have frontages to Darling-street and James-street of 20 feet each, the depth being about 80 feet.
LOT 20, CORNER ALLOTMENT NEAR THE FERRY, frontage to Darling-street 40 feet, to Frederick-street 44 feet.
LOT 21, Corner Allotment, frontage to James-street 40 feet, to Frederick-street 44 feet.
THE WATER FRONTAGES
ARE
LOTS 22 TO 26.
LOT 22 has a water frontage of about 35 feet; adjoining the Darling-street landing-place; its frontage to Darling-street is 92 feet, and to Frederick-street 31 feet; in fact this is a plot of land unsurpassed in value by any in the vicinity of Sydney, if, indeed, in the city itself.
LOTS 23 to 25, are of about similar dimensions to the above, having frontages to the harbour, with entrance from Frederick-street, and are peculiarly adapted for boat-building, &c.
LOT 26, is similarly situated, but of greater dimensions, having a frontage of 52 feet by a depth of 80 feet.

LOTS 27 to 52, have frontages of 20 feet to James-street, by depths of about 52 feet.

The immediate vicinage of this building land to the busiest portion of our metropolis renders it almost unnecessary to point out any further advantage; it is however well to state that it is in contemplation immediately to establish ferry steamers, from the Sydney side to the Darling-street wharf, which, from the facility of intercourse thus afforded, will give to such property as that now advertised a value unsurpassed by any of our suburban allotments. Indeed the past prosperity of Balmain, is of itself a sufficient index to the price which lan is there will inevitably assume.

MAGNIFICENT INVESTMENT.

MORT AND BROWN
Have received instructions from the Proprietor to sell by auction, at their Mart,
ON TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 24,
At 11 o'clock,
IN ONE LOT,

THE principal portions of the highly important and rapidly advancing township of
DALKEITH,
IN THE DISTRICT OF CASSILIS, INCLUDING THE INN, GENERAL STORE, AND VARIOUS OTHER TENEMENTS, ALL RESPECTABLY TENANTED; AND, ALSO, UPWARDS OF 1200 ACRES OF LAND,
TOGETHER WITH THE GOODWILL OF THE LARGE AND PROFITABLE BUSINESS CARRIED ON BY THE PROPRIETOR.

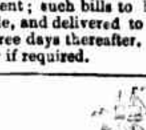

To residents of the Hunter, and of the Squatting Districts to the northward and westward of that county, where the reputation of Dalkeith is a rising township, and a place of trade, is thoroughly established, no enumeration of its advantages is necessary; but for the information of other capitalists the Auctioneers deem it their duty to state a few facts relating to the property.

DALKEITH
Is situated on the high road leading from Maitland to Bligh, Liverpool Plains, Wellington, the Castlereagh and Namoi Rivers, and to all the Western and North-western interior, and is the last township in that direction within the limits of location. It is in the heart of a fertile country, and well settled, and in a neighbourhood of wealthy proprietors. The Post Office established there allows postal communication with Sydney three times a-week, and the Government have recognised its position as a Public Township by laying down the high road to it, and by voting a large sum of money for the erection of a new Court House. The National Board of Education, too, have voted money for the erection of a Public School, which the local patrons are about to commence forthwith; and the Episcopalian and Roman Catholic Churches are about to erect places of Worship in the township for their respective Communions. These and other facts, the relation of which is not compatible with the limits of an advertisement clearly indicate the growing importance of the place.
The Proprietor has carried on in the township an extensive and profitable trade for the last four years, which has been steadily progressing until it has attained a degree of prosperity unequalled perhaps by any similar business out of Sydney. Indeed, it is obvious that a place so situated as this is, being the frontier town of the most wealthy districts of the colony, could not fail to command the success which has attended it—a result which, looking to the comparatively short growth of the place, foreshadows a positive fortune to any enterprising purchaser.
To persons wishing to establish an extensive country branch depôt, as a general store, or to combine that description of business with the conduct of the Inn, for which the various commodious buildings on the place afford ample facilities, an opportunity like the present may not occur for many years; the purchaser would step at once into a large business, and being almost sole proprietor of this important township, he could effectually secure the trade in both departments, and as he would commence operations at the very busiest season of the year, his profits would provide him with the means of meeting a great portion of the purchase money. Constant applications are being made to the present proprietor to sell allotments, but as it has been his object to retain the control of all the trade of the place (a trade which is indebted more for its prosperity to the large graziers of the neighbourhood and to the immense traffic through the township than to the persons living within it), he has not considered it advisable at present to comply with these applications.
As an investment for capital the property is highly eligible, the proprietor having been offered a very large rental for it, an offer which would doubtless still be avaiable to a purchaser.
There is a large quantity of building materials of the best quality collected on the ground, (brought there for the purpose of making additions to the inn and building cottages), which the purchaser can take at a valuation at his option, as he can also the present stock in trade.
Every facility will be afforded to a purchaser, and the proprietor will, if necessary, remain a month after the sale on the premises, to give information to the purchaser, and introduce him to the proprietor's connexion. Possession can be given on the 30th September next.

TITLE UNEXCEPTIONABLE.

Full particulars as to which, and further information as to the property, if required, may be obtained at the Office of Messrs. Little and Yeomans, Solicitors, 120, King-street, Sydney, where a plan may be inspected showing what allotments have been sold, or on application to Messrs. Austen and Co., Maitland.

CHURCH AND SCHOOL ESTATES.
LEASES FOR SEVEN, FOURTEEN, AND TWENTY-ONE YEARS.

ON Saturday, the 28th September next, the following Lands belonging to the Church and School Estates, will be put up to public auction, at the Land Sales Room, Old Military Barracks, at 11 A.M. precisely.
The following is the plan upon which these lands will be offered for public competition.
A lease will be granted for 21 years, the tenant having the option to determine it at the expiration of the first or second term of 7 years. The rental of the second and third terms will be successively increased by half the amount of the annual rent of the first term, viz., in the following ratio, 4, 6, 8.
The Lease will not contain any clause to prevent underletting, but the under-tenants will in no way be recognized by the Government; and the original lessee, unless a transfer be formally executed by the Agent, will be held responsible for the due payment of the rent.
The usual reservation as to making roads, constructing bridges, &c., will be introduced; but the reservation will not extend to timber, which the tenant will be allowed to cut.
The rent for the first year must be paid on the day of sale; after which period the rent will be payable in advance, yearly, when the annual rent is below thirty pounds, and half-yearly, when the rent is not less than that sum.
Any lands not bid for at the day of sale, will be open to selection by private contract at the upset price. Lithographed plans and further particulars may be obtained on application to the Agent.
Leases to date from 1st October, 1850.
